About the Organisation

The Victorian Aboriginal Health Service (VAHS) was established in 1973 to address the specific medical needs of Victorian Aboriginal communities. 2023 marked a landmark year as VAHS proudly celebrated its 50-year of providing a comprehensive range of medical, dental, allied health and social services for our community.

As well as providing a variety of medical services, VAHS is committed to supporting the well-being of the community through contributions to community events and activities. VAHS is also committed to assisting research into the ongoing needs of the community.

VAHS is a child safe organisation, committed to child safety and wellbeing, and recruits' staff in accordance with the Child Safe Standards Victoria.

About the Opportunity

The sexual health and blood borne virus (SH/BBV) AHW position is to provide high quality services including assessment, examination, treatment and case management, along with contributing to the development of models of holistic health incorporating continuity of care. All services provided will focus primarily on sexual health care.

Key responsibilities

- support and strengthen the current sexual health and BBV program with direction and guidance from the SH/BBV nurse while performing general health care delivery procedures and services.
- Assist with the delivery of health education and health promotion activities for the patient and the program in relation to SH and BBV.
- Work as a multi-disciplinary team within the medical program's unit and with external stakeholders when required.
- Provide education and resources for clients and families
- Adhere to the KPI and workplan requirements of the funding body for the SH/BBV program.

Prerequisites

- Certificate 3 or 4 in Aboriginal Health Work or equivalent
- Victorian Working with Children's Check
- National Police Check
- Driver's License.
